

SPOTLIGHT: NCADD Middlesex Offers Complete Online Curriculum for Addiction Counselor Certification

NCADD of Middlesex County recently announced the availability of all 45 training courses for addiction professionals required by the Addiction Professionals Certification Board of New Jersey (APCBNJ).

NCADD is the only organization currently offering this complete training in an online format.

Each course is eligible for six hours of credit towards certification. All courses were developed by credentialed counseling professionals and have been approved by the APCBNJ. Courses can be taken from any computer with internet access. Students can start and stop the course, review material, and focus on specific topics as they feel necessary.

"We believe this is a tremendous opportunity for counselor training," said Steven G. Liga, Executive Director of NCADD of Middlesex. "The job outlook for substance abuse counselors is excellent, but, getting counselors the training they need has been difficult. Work and family schedules can make it hard for students to complete all 45 courses in a traditional classroom. Making these courses available online gives more individuals the chance to get the training they need to enter the field."

Individuals seeking certification in New Jersey must take a total of 270 course hours in five domains as part of the requirements to become a Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor (CADC). New Jersey statute allows up to nine (9) courses or 54 credits to be obtained via distance learning, including online courses, for initial certification. Students may take up to 20 hours for a LCADC and 30 for a CADC in
