

Mutual Aid / Self-Help Support Groups

Mutual aid, also called self-help groups, play an important role in recovery from alcohol and drug addiction for millions of people. There are mutual support groups for persons with an alcohol and drug problem as well as for their families or significant others.

Mutual aid groups are nonprofessional and include members who share the same problem and voluntarily support one another. Mutual aid groups do not provide formal treatment but provide social, emotional and informational support focused on taking responsibility for their alcohol and drug problems and their sustained health, wellness, and recovery.

For some groups, meetings can be "open" - anyone can attend or "closed" - attendance is limited to people who want to stop drinking or using drugs.

The following represents only a partial list of some of the most widely available mutual aid/self help support groups:

Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) – www.aa.org

An international fellowship of men and women who come together to share their experience, strength and hope with the purpose of staying sober and helping other alcoholics to achieve sobriety. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking.

Alcoholicos Anonimos (AA) – www.aa.org/lang/sp/subpage.cfm
